Changes to Charity Streams

News

By Roberta Schroer

ARE THESE CHANGES TO TWITCH AS EASY AND MORE CHARITABLE AS STATED?

Unlike the complicated mess that is setting up a stream, Twitch Charity (Beta) is a simple concept to grasp. The Amazon owned streaming platform [Twitch] recognized the difficulties streamers go through to set up a charity live, therefore opting to work to make it a better experience. Twitch Charity, according to Twitch Blog, will be a new, built-in fundraising feature to eliminate unnecessary additional steps to setting up the stream, therefore letting you focus more on the content you produce and less of managing said content.

The process is reduced to just a couple of clicks; simply select your donation goal and a charity to raise money for, on top of your normal process of setting up, and you're done. This feature will benefit both viewers and streamers as, for the former, it provides an easier, much simpler, method for donating to charities of their choosing. For streamers, the setting up process is a lot more simple. Not only that, but the lingering question of "Where does this money go?" is answered. Twitch states it first goes to their partner, PayPal Giving Fund, who then takes care of sending donations to the Charity of your choice.

WHAT A FEW OTHERS HAD TO SAY...

"I support the ones behind Humanitarian causes"

-Ashewyn, Twitch

WHAT CHARITY WOULD YOU DONATE TO AND WHY?

"I would donate to 'The Trevor Project'."

- WithMayX, Twitch

WHAT WILL TWITCH DO NEXT FOR ITS USERS?

Simply put, donation streams will be a lot easier for viewers and streamers with this new feature, Twitch Charity. The platform plans to start with a limited amount of available charities, but says they will add more in the future. So, to all those Twitch streamers, try your hand at charity streams, and raise money for a good cause with a few easier clicks to get you started.

Twitch Unity and Fundraising

"I mean yeah! That would be really cool. Maybe call it 'Social Media Day'?"
-Taylynne ❤️, Live Me

Should streaming have it's own holiday? What would you call it?

"I guess so, with the way of the world now. Streamland should be the name!"
-maddieland 🍒❄️, Pococha.

W.D.Y.T? What Do You Think?

THE BEST STREAMING PLATFORM?

LET THE DEBATES BEGIN!

WHAT A FEW OTHERS HAD TO SAY...

"I was looking for the honey and found the money."

-GatesGalleries, Live Me

WHY DO YOU STREAM ON [SAID PLATFORM]?

"I seen people do it and I figured I could do it a lot cooler."

-RokuTheBlerd 🍜, MeetMe

With the fact that there are so many streaming platforms, it's a good thing that there isn't a Monopoly- One streaming platform that has entire control of the industry. But this often leads to a simple yet tough question for all streamers alike; Which streaming platform is the BEST streaming platform? There are some that have been around for years and some that are new. There are some that have basic features and some that have so many features that it's never ending. Let's get into it.

First, understand that we are only going to go over a few platforms due to the space in this post, but feel free to let me know how you feel in the "The Best Streaming Platform?" Blog.

Twitch has been around since 2011. Users can game stream and also have IRL (In Real Life) Streams like Cooking, tutorials, arts & Crafts and more. The minimum age to stream on Twitch is 13, but parents should be conscious since minors may be exposed to mature content. It is popular due to the fact that it was one of the first major platforms and the types of content based around gaming. Streamers can become partners or affiliates and also earn bits when they get gifted.

Live Me was created in 2016. This platform allows users to go live, chat, share the stream, and exchange digital currency of coins and diamonds. The minimum age to stream on Live Me is 18 and in recent years they have enforced this heavily as there were issues with minors on the platform in recent years. It is popular due to the fact that users can receive cool animated gifts (which can convert into real money) and can be at the top of the feature board. There is also the h2h (Head to Head [Also known as PKs on other platforms]) where users battle to get the most diamonds.

MeetMe was created by The Meet Group in 2005. This is a dating site that allows users to connect via chat and live streams. The main age of the users are 20 to 55 and any minor trying to create an account will not be allowed. Due to the fact that there aren't intensive guidelines, not much of anything will be done to users who have fake profiles and are trying to scam (Which seems to be the majority of the platform).

As I said before, there is way more information that we can talk about, so check out the "The Best Streaming Platform?" Blog.

"The dice are fun!"

THIS MONTH'S TIP: CHOOSING A PLATFORM (TWITCH)

Picture this: you're a fresh face to streaming, whether you want to show off your talent for singing or gaming, and you're struggling to choose a platform. With so many at your disposal, it can be tough choosing one without extensive research. Do you prefer a well-known site such as Twitch? Or would you rather smaller platforms such as Trovo? For new streamers, a platform such as LiveMe may be the perfect start, as figuring it out is less of a hassle, less confusion. Twitch, YouTube, and other platforms such as Facebook require more time spent learning how to stream, such as navigating the interface, knowing what hashtags to input, or even simple things like where the 'Go Live!' button is located.

Before starting your journey on Twitch (and everywhere in fact), first and foremost, you should always read the Community Guidelines of wherever you chose to stream. Assuming you did both that and set up an account, now it's time to choose a software encoder. The most well-known would be OBS Studio and Streamlabs. Instead of going through all the differences of the two, let's boil it down to the difference of cons. According to Restream, OBS Studio has a low variety of plug-ins (such as overlays), you cannot use audio files as sources, and it doesn't run on Windows XP. Streamlabs, however, takes up more CPU space and doesn't have sound commands.

SOME TIPS TO HELP YOU BECOME A BETTER STREAMER!

Tips

Ensure your audio and webcam are up to par, along with lighting — that is if you are using a webcam. Setting up a stream may vary depending on the software you chose, but you can always explore it beforehand. Add any and all video/audio sources you plan to use in your stream, perfect your stream settings, and Go Live!

Streaming on YouTube is a similar process, signing up/logging in, reading the guidelines, downloading a software if you prefer advanced streaming, etc. Thankfully, YouTube already provides you with many “how to” sources like videos and PDFs. This platform allows you to schedule the stream to start at a later date and your choice of monetization. You can upload a custom thumbnail to bring in more viewers and change the audience you aim for (PG or otherwise). While there is only an explanation for streaming with encoders on a PC, there are other alternatives for you to choose from such as mobile or console.

Exploring all your options and getting the opinion of others is a great start. Ask them for their platform recommendations, research blogs to get a summarization of the features of those sites. Extensive research isn't always needed when other alternatives can present themselves to you. Sites such as Restream or even our very own Infinite Broadcasting's Forums are a big help, listing features, pros, and cons of some of the biggest platforms and providing first hand accounts about experiences on some streaming platforms. Keep your head up — choosing where to start is only just that: a start.
